Dear Hiring Manager,

I am thrilled to apply for the Intern role at Lea's Trust, where innovative approaches resonate with my growing fascination for technology, and this position aligns seamlessly with my educational journey in computer science and my fervent desire to learn from dynamic teams.

I value collaboration highly. During my capstone project, which involved designing a machine learning model, I coordinated tasks between teammates and fostered innovative ideas through cohesive planning, resulting in a functional prototype that engaged my peers and faculty alike.

While working as a Student Research Assistant, I explored both data methodologies and communication. I often found myself eagerly digging into literature reviews, ensuring that our insights reflected precision and clarity.

While I love tackling challenges like project management, I sometimes hesitate when starting new ventures, but I channel that energy toward enhancing my skills. Engaging independently and seeking advice from mentors often provides practical clarity and spurs my creativity into action.

I appreciate the support offered in this role, and I am excited about working independently across diverse departments, as I find immense value in gaining holistic perspectives on organizational processes and innovative methodologies.

I look forward to discussing how I can contribute to your team.

Thanks,

James Benitez
