Dear Hiring Manager,

I am eager to express interest in the Investment Banking Internship at Wall Street Capital, recognizing this opportunity aligns seamlessly with my burgeoning aspirations and academic journey within finance, ultimately positioning me to cultivate indispensable skills requisite for investment banking excellence.

This immersive internship promises not just hands-on experience but also interaction with seasoned professionals, thereby affording a unique vantage point into the nuances of investment banking. I firmly believe my recent capstone project, where I crafted a comprehensive financial model exploring a hypothetical merger, underscores my collaborative spirit and analytical prowess.

Through this project, I executed rigorous Discounted Cash Flow analysis, which sharpened my analytical aptitude, and tasked myself with developing a detailed Pitch Book, thus polishing my presentation skills by engaging with a peer team and delivering impactful insights to our faculty.

In my previous role as a Financial Analysis Intern, thoughtful engagement in weekly mentorship sessions yielded substantial insights into real-world financial practices, enhancing my research acumen and strategic thinking, further corroborating my determination to contribute meaningfully during my internship tenure.

I also take pride in my successful participation in the University Finance Case Competition, where my team emerged victorious, showcasing my capacity to thrive in high-pressure situations while delivering peak performance.

Thank you for considering my application.

Sincerely,

Aarav Todd
