

STRENGTHS

- Freight Governance
Freight-forwarder reviews became more useful after delivery, customs, damage, and accessorial evidence shaped each discussion.
- Cross-Functional Trust
When urgent material moved, close coordination with Quality and Material Handling gave production teams practical answers.
- Exception Recovery
Peers often sought help with customs holds and late bookings; documented recovery plans made next steps clear.
- Process Discipline
SOP work replaced scattered habits with repeatable routing, receipt, escalation, and documentation practices across sites.
- Supplier Partnerships
Direct conversations with suppliers and brokers built goodwill during difficult shipments, turning tense updates into shared action.

SUMMARY

Lead logistics analyst with nine years directing domestic and international material movement across aerospace, defense, and commercial manufacturing programs. Translates program requirements into transportation strategies, supplier execution plans, compliant import and export procedures, and practical controls across multiple U.S. locations. Partners closely with Supply Chain Planning, Material Handling, Manufacturing Engineering, Quality, Supplier Program Managers, freight forwarders, 3PLs, brokers, government agencies, and suppliers. Uses SAP S/4HANA, Oracle Transportation Management, carrier portals, shipment tracking, Incoterms, commercial invoices, and export documentation to protect production schedules and customer commitments. Builds clear SOPs, resolves exceptions early, and balances delivery urgency, regulatory requirements, risk, and total landed cost. Ready to support Northstar Aerospace Systems with disciplined logistics leadership, trusted stakeholder relationships, and reliable material flow across DoD, FAA, and commercial programs.
