Dear Hiring Manager,

I am eager to apply for the Traffic Engineering Intern role at Jacobs, as this position perfectly matches my growing expertise and enthusiasm for traffic solutions in a professional and dynamic environment, where every aspect learned in academia can coalesce into actionable insights.

Jacobs boasts an impressive legacy in engineering consulting, offering innovative solutions while impacting communities, and my background in civil engineering and hands-on experiences equip me uniquely to contribute and be an asset amid your talented crew.

Through significant academic projects, I tackled challenges in traffic data analysis, creatively utilizing tools like Synchro and VISSIM to improve intersection efficiency, where actual results drove impactful recommendations, demonstrating a genuine blend of theory and practice.

I thrive in collaborative settings, where my ability to present complex data in clear formats brought clarity to our findings in front of stakeholders, thus bolstering community bonds and engendering trust in the processes we undertook.

Though I often ponder if I could truly enhance Jacobs' great narrative, I remind myself that my dedication to learning and problem-solving positions me right where innovation meets practicality, ripe to get started in January 2026.

Looking forward to your response.

Thanks,

Waylon Knight
